REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

As we view it, the most important phase of Sunday school work is the study of God's Word and to impress its truths upon the minds and hearts of those who attend.

The supreme importance of this cannot be overestimated. However, there are many other details which should not be neglected. The organization of a Sunday school should be attended with wisdom. The superintendent should be thoroughly consecrated and efficient, because the success or failure of the school depends largely upon him. The teachers have a great responsibility. Therefore, those who have the best qualifications spiritually and otherwise, should be selected for the children.

It has been said that promptness is the key to success and this should be observed. Never permit the service to drag. Order, government and discipline add greatly to the charm and beauty of the Sunday school. It is understood that prayer and thanksgiving are fruitful, and music as ordered by the Holy Spirit occupies a strategic position.

A lecture on the lesson by the superintendent after the classes is certainly very helpful and should not be discarded.

The Sunday school should not be content with merely being self-supporting and helping those who are immediately connected with it, since it is a great channel through which we may scatter good literature, help the orphans, care for the poor and needy and support the cause of missions throughout the world.

No one, especially a minister, should lose an opportunity to encourage this great work, for by our united efforts and the blessing of God this may be the means both directly and indirectly of the salvation of many souls.

Respectfully submitted,

W. B. GODWIN,
H. E. OXENDINE,
M. D. SELLERS,
Committee.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION.

In view of the fact that religious education has been such an important factor in the preservation and promulgation of all Christian doctrine and that the Pentecostal Holiness Church is in a great measure dependent on this same factor, we your committee submit the following recommendations:

That all the members of this conference endeavor to impress upon our people the need and benefits of religious education.

We recommend for our preachers the books designated in the course of study adopted by the last General Conference and published in the Minutes.

We recommend that the members of this Conference do all within their power to get all the children of the Pentecostal people within its bounds in a school that defends the doctrine of the church. Especially children of high school age.

We recommend that this conference give its endorsement to the Falcon School, Holmes School, and Franklin Springs Institute.

We recommend that this conference resolve to give all possible assistance to any efficient educational program in the Pentecostal Holiness Church.

I. H. Presley,
J. H. Marshburn,
A. C. Holland,
Committee.

Report was adopted.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON THE PENTECOSTAL YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY.

We submit the following:

That every church put forth an earnest effort to establish a society for the sole purpose of putting before the young people higher Christian ideals, and assigning work of such a nature as will lift them toward God. That all officers and leaders be saved at least and in harmony with the Pentecostal Holiness Church and under the direct supervision of the pastor, and that they have the interest of the young people at heart.

And to those of our number who not openly, but perhaps secretly oppose the Young People's Society; we think that it will be a good thing for all of us not to forget the time when we ourselves were children and young people. We are prone to expect more of the young people today than our mothers, fathers, and pastors required of us. Let us consider for the glory of God.
